

Young Men

To the black young men in the streets,
I see you.
I see you think,
you have this key.

You must assume you are Khaled,
controlling souls with this bright mind,
Just like the marionettes used on the side of the road.

Vindictive to the concept of having such a powerful thing,
I hope hearing this makes your ears ring.

Being able to rap is everyone's dream,
This life you're living,
Can be seen big screen, but nobody casted you.

You are not an actor,
So get some act right.

No more manipulating people's minds,
& Committing crimes;
Why do you think this is the way?

You will learn one day young men.
With you, I see that all things are possible.
